V. NEW BUSINESSES

a. Commission Name.

- i. Commissioners discussed whether to recommend a modification of the Special Needs Inclusion Commission's name. Chair Gillespie discussed a study from a cognitive research journal that she read after the Disability Awareness Trainings. Chair Gillespie noted that the study found that the term "special needs" had more negative connotations than the term "disability" and that the term "disability" is a broader term that encompasses the Commission's establishing authorization. Commissioner Mack and others agreed with this assessment and asked Liaison Reiss how the commission would go about changing its name. Liaison Reiss said that the Commission could write a recommendation to the Board detailing the reason and justification for the change and that the Board of Trustees would need to agree and approve of the change.
- ii. Commissioners agreed to pursue this recommendation and Chair Gillespie would draft the recommendation and send to Liaison Reiss

b. Attendance.

- i. Commissioners noted the consistent absence of certain members of the Commission and noted that it has been difficult to establish a quorum due to this issue. Commissioners asked if they could also draft a recommendation to remove the member that has consistently not attended meetings. Liaison Reiss said he would look into this but that he believed the commission could also recommend this.
